Province Turns Down Children's Centre

NEWS RELEASE:

The Terrace Children's Centre Association has learned that its request for a long-term, low-cost lease on an acre of land at the back of Kalum and Olson, has been turned down by the provincial government.

The association, which began meeting last October when housing shortages of the Terrace Day Care Society, and the Childminding Centre became critical, had requested a 99 year lease at a token rent, similar to that of the Child Development Centre which pays $1 per year for its land. This request was supported by MLA Cyril Shelford, council and the Regional District. In a letter from the B.C. Building Corporation the association has been advised that while the government is prepared to negotiate a lease on the unclarified property at the back of the new proposed Court House and Health Services Building, for a combined children's centre, the cost will be $2,500 per year plus taxes.

The letter stated that it was "the mandate of the Corporation to operate in a market value context" and that therefore the Corporation, formerly Public Works, could no longer lease property at a "nominal rate". The letter also went on to suggest that it would be in order for the association to "approach various government ministries for grants in lieu of the rent in recognition of the services provided to the community" by the group. It advised that "the district of Terrace should be requested to provide a grant in lieu of property taxes". A meeting of the Terrace Children's Centre Association has decided to appeal the decision and reiterate a request for a token lease on the grounds that a starting rent of over $200 a month, plus taxes, on the property, would make it financially impossible to mortgage the necessary buildings for the combined Children's facility.

The association also criticized a government policy that attempted to make a profit out of provincial land that was required by community based and supported groups trying to upgrade needed services.

Meanwhile the fate of the old house on the Kalum and Olson site is undecided. Originally slated for demolition to make way for the new provincial buildings, the house was donated to the Children's Centre Association for removal to the land requested by the group. The estimated costs for removal to a foundation run at over $12,000. The house is currently being used by the Terrace Childminding Centre.

Cyclist mauled by bear in Whitehorse

WHITEHORSE, Yukon — A cyclist was mauled, bitten and dragged by a black bear into bushes along the Alaska Highway south of here Saturday before a motorist killed the animal with a rifle.

Wolf Seidler, 39, of Edmonton, and his wife Ulla were the first ones on the scene and were credited for helping save the man's life. After they approached the bear another motorist came up and shot the animal.

The victim, Giorgio Mazza, 37, of Lecco, Italy, is in serious condition in Fort Nelson hospital, "but it appears he will recover," Constable Lou Bates, of Fort Nelson, B.C., said Sunday night.

"He's pretty well chewed up," Constable Bates said of Mazza. "He received 150 stitches to his head and another 150 to the back area and arms. But no bones were broken."

"We have no idea when he'll be able to leave hospital though. It'll be a while because they have to watch out for infection complications. Bears aren't too clean."

Mazza had flown from Italy to Whitehorse a few weeks ago and was planning to cycle from there to Dawson Creek, B.C. The year before, he had cycled from Anchorage, Alaska, to Whitehorse.

The incident occurred in British Columbia about 190 kilometres northwest of Fort Nelson.

CHASES VICTIM
"He told me he was cycling down the road and suddenly came upon this bear on the shoulder," said Constable Bates. "He wasn't too familiar with wild animals but had seen another bear earlier on his trip and it had run from the road into the bushes."

"When he stopped his bike, the bear started towards him so he threw some luggage down on the road to distract him. It muddled over this a bit and he in the meantime threw his bike down and started running."

"The bear chased him and grabbed him by the back of the neck before dragging him 30 metres into the bushes, and through a two-strand barbed wire fence to boot," the constable said. "Bears are fast, for a short distance—they can even outrun a horse."

"Believe me, it was a nightmare," Seidler said in an interview Sunday night.

When they first arrived on the scene Seidler thought: "Here's a mutt guy playing with a cub." But then he realized the bear was dragging him and he was just like a rag doll. The guy was half sitting up and the bear was behind him. It had his right forearm in its mouth and was trying to drag him farther into the bush.

The victim called out. "He didn't shout, he didn't scream. He sounded weak and just asked me to help him. Otherwise, there was silence."

SHOOT BEAR
Seidler said he jumped from the roadside across a small, shallow ditch and started shouting and swearing to get the animal's attention.

"And he dropped the guy and started taking a few steps towards me." A man and a woman in a pickup truck approached and Seidler flagged them down. The driver took a 30.06-calibre rifle from the truck, loaded it and took aim at the animal.

"We had to wait a few seconds before he could get a clear shot because the bear's head was down," said Seidler. "But he dropped it with one shot to the left side of the head."

Mrs. Seidler then drove their car to a nearby lodge, where police and an ambulance were called.

Constable Bates said the bear weighed about 200 pounds and appeared to be a mature four to five-year-old in excellent health. The animal will be tested for rabies.

Slow single lane traffic on highway 25, here at Onion Lake Hill, is caused by repairs to a "frost hole" under the road, according to district department of highways officials. District technician Harman Delyea explained that this is only one project to help make highway 25 a better roadway. He also mentioned that the Onion Lake Hill and Klumath River Bridge Hill are prepared and awaiting third lane paving. It might be a good idea to beware of the single lane traffic at the site.

Motorcyclist in Mills Hospital

A motorcycle accident Sunday sent a Terrace youth to hospital as a result of suspected back injuries. According to Terrace RCMP, the youth driving the cycle was blinded by high beam headlights of an on-coming car and subsequently drove into the ditch.

A fire at Lakelse Lake totally destroyed a trailer belonging to Roy Chaplow. Cause of the fire has not yet been determined.

Two persons were picked up by police after stealing hubcaps off a truck at the McKean Motors lot Sunday.

Three Terrace persons were charged with impaired driving.

Federal-provincial prosecution battle

By JIM POLING
OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government begins an all-out attempt today to convince the Supreme Court of Canada that Ottawa has the authority to prosecute crimes under special federal statutes, without provincial permission.

Ottawa is appealing an Alberta Appeal Court ruling that a federal Criminal Code section, authorizing the federal attorney-general to undertake prosecutions, is unconstitutional. What it boils down to is another mammoth struggle over division of federal and provincial powers. At stake is the long-standing federal practice of prosecuting such crimes as trafficking in illicit drugs.

Under the British North America Act, the country's constitution, Parliament has the exclusive right to make criminal laws while the provinces have jurisdiction over administration of justice.

However, Ottawa always has prosecuted crimes under federal statutes such as the Narcotics Control Act, and the provinces have handled several crimes under the Criminal Code.

The provinces are saying the BNA Act gives their attorney-general the exclusive right to prosecute in all crimes. This overruled the Criminal Code section giving prosecution power to the federal attorney-general. CAME TO HEAD

The arguments have been floating in and out of courts for some time, but came to a head two years ago when Patrick Hauser was arrested by RCMP near Red Deer, Alta., and charged with possession of marijuana for the purpose of trafficking. Hauser's lawyer, Milt Harradence of Calgary, immediately challenged the validity of the Criminal Code section. His contentions were accepted in a 3-to-2 ruling by the Alberta Appeal Court. All provinces except Manitoba have intervened in the case and will throw their legal weight behind Harradence during the two or three days the appeal is expected to last. No reasons have been given for Manitoba's decision not to join in the appeal.

The court completed hearing a similar constitutional struggle Friday when it reserved its decision in Quebec's Keable Commission appeal. The commission, investigating alleged RCMP illegal activities in Quebec, was shut down Feb. 21 when the Quebec Court of Appeal ruled that Keable infringed upon federal authority by trying to subpoena documents from a federal cabinet minister.

In that case the provinces argued Ottawa was trying to undermine provincial powers to keep a watch on police. Ottawa argued that Keable exceeded provincial jurisdiction by trying to investigate the RCMP security service, which it said is strictly a federal affair.

Chief Justice Bora Laskin, confined to the cardiac unit of a Toronto hospital with an undisclosed ailment, missed the Keable appeal and is not expected back for Hauser.

Frances's no. 1 crook visits Police Station

BERNAY, France (AP) — Police began a massive manhunt Sunday for France's prime fugitive, Jacques Mesrine, who is believed to have held up a casino Friday night after boldly visiting the local police station.

Mesrine made a spectacular escape from the Sante prison in central Paris on May 8 with another long-term criminal, Francois Besse. A third prisoner was shot dead by police.

Mesrine also is wanted in Canada on charges of escaping from Quebec's maximum security Laval Institute.

Armed police and gendarmes reinforced by France's top police sharpshooters surrounded woods near the western town of Bernay after two men were seen walking along a railway line. A helicopter search was launched, and police posted men in all houses in the area to prevent the wanted men taking hostages.

Officials said Mesrine, carrying a justice ministry identity card stolen during his escape, walked into Deauville police station Friday, said he was a police commissioner and asking for the duty inspector.

FLAUNTS HIS INFAMY

Told that the inspector was out, Mesrine said he would call back, then left. The two men went to a nearby Casino, where Mesrine used the card to meet the director, then forced him to hand over 70,000 francs ($14,000 U.S.), saying as he left: "I'm Mesrine. I guess you've heard of me." An employee sounded an alarm which rang in the police station.

There was a gunbattle between police and the convicts as they fled the casino, during which a 28-year-old woman was shot in the chest and a British tourist was shot twice in the leg.

Police said witnesses identified Mesrine from photographs, and added the second man may have been Besse.

Terrorists captured

BONN (AP) — Four of West Germany's most wanted terrorist suspects have been captured in Yugoslavia, the Bonn government said today.

Justice ministry spokesman Sepp Binder told a news conference they were among 20 alleged hard-core terrorists sought in a series of slayings last year, including the kidnapping of industrialist Hanns Martin Schleyer.

He said the government has asked Yugoslavia to extradite the four. But Yugoslavia has asked Bonn to arrest and deport an undisclosed number of unidentified persons wanted by the Belgrade government, Binder said.

He denied, however, that Yugoslavia was linking extradition of the four West Germans to its request. A 1974 extradition agreement between the two countries rules out such an exchange, Binder said.

He identified the terrorist suspects as Brigitte Mohnhaupt, 28, Rolf Clemens Wagner, 33, Peter Boock, 25, and Siegfried Guttrun Hoffmann, 33.

Details of the capture were not immediately available.

11 shots exchanged in Vancouver gun battle

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — A police detective shot in a gunfight with a bank robber said Sunday the shootout began after a customer threw an ashtray at the robber.

Det. Laurence Mortimer, 56, was hit three times in the Saturday gun battle—once on each hand and once through the neck.

The gunman, possibly wounded, escaped from the Bank of Montreal branch in the south mall of the Park Royal shopping centre.

In satisfactory condition in Lions Gate Hospital, Mortimer said he and the robber stood five feet apart and exchanged 11 shots. Mortimer said he had been showing the bank's assistant manager a picture of a fraud suspect when he saw the robber, who was carrying a long-barrelled .22-calibre pistol.

"I was going to wait until he got out and tackle him outside," said Mortimer explaining that he did not want to endanger the 30 customers in the bank.

GUNMAN HIT
Then a 65-year-old customer standing at the counter threw the ashtray, said Mortimer, hitting the gunman on the temple. "He swung around with the gun," Mortimer said. "I thought he was going to blow the guy away."

Mortimer, who was in plain clothes, said he identified himself as a police officer, hoping the robber would give himself up without a fight. Instead, he turned his gun on Mortimer, the detective said.

The first shot hit the 19-year veteran of the municipal force on his right hand and "that's the hand I hold my gun in, so I had to switch the gun to my other hand."

"He was just standing there blowing the shells off. After making sure there were no customers behind the robber, Mortimer began firing back—just a reflex action," he said.

The robber fired six shots, Mortimer said. Mortimer said he thinks he hit the robber in the chest—"from that range it would have been hard to miss"—but isn't sure.

CUSTOMER RAN
In the panic, a bank customer ran from the bank into the path of a car, but was not seriously injured.

Details from police regarding the robber's getaway are sketchy.

A police spokesman said some witnesses reported the bandit stumbled to the door of the bank before driving off in a stolen car, while others say the gunman appeared uninjured and escaped easily.

He made off with an undetermined amount of foreign traveller's cheques, police said.

North Vancouver RCMP later found the getaway car, which belongs to an unidentified mail worker and had been stolen from the south parking lot.

The robber is identified as a white male, between 40 and 50, about five-foot-five inches tall with a receding hairline, wearing a brown overcoat, white rubber surgical gloves and plastic halloween mask.

Following the shooting, two women ran from the bank into a nearby drug store, took a roll of bandages and gave them to police, who had just arrived at the scene. Mortimer was lying on the bank floor, bleeding heavily.

The unidentified customer who threw the ashtray said Sunday that he hid behind the counter when the gunman turned on him.

One of the bullets passed through his unzipped jacket which police later confiscated.

"I was goddam lucky it (the bullet) didn't go into my liver," he said.

Rules for Lawyer's ads still unknown

VANCOUVER (CP) — An inquiry by the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission into the British Columbia Law Society regulation of advertising by lawyers has been adjourned indefinitely.

The inquiry was called to determine if the society was guilty of restraint of trade under the Combines Investigation Act through its restrictions against advertising by lawyers.

Douglas Rae, lawyer for the society and its secretary, Victor McCallum, said Sunday he was advised Thursday that the inquiry was adjourned, with the provision that the commission can resume it with two weeks notice.

The inquiry was adjourned as a courtesy while the society seeks a B.C. Supreme Court declaration that the Combines Investigation Act does not apply to its members, Rae said.

Douglas McK. Brown, another lawyer for the society, said it now does not have to comply with a subpoena which ordered the society to surrender internal documents today at the Vancouver office of the federal ministry of consumer and corporate affairs.

The subpoena demanded all letters, memoranda, notices and citations issued by the society to lawyers Vic Stephens of Victoria, the provincial Progressive Conservative leader, and Don Jabour of North Vancouver.

Both lawyers were cited by the society for conduct unbecoming a member of the society.

Stephens was cited for public interviews he gave soon after he opened a storefront law practice in 1977.

Jabour has been granted an B.C. Supreme Court injunction stopping law society benchers from ruling on a recommendation that he be suspended for violating the advertising rules. Jabour's dispute is scheduled for B.C. Supreme Court in November.

Top Mounties to testify in Sept.

By GERARD McNEIL
OTTAWA (CP) — Politicians and senior officials, including two former RCMP commissioners, will be called before a royal commission into RCMP wrongdoing for seven weeks of questions beginning Sept. 11, it was announced Monday.

The issues will be ministerial and official responsibility for acts ranging from arson to having post office employees risk their jobs by handing first-class mail to Mounties for examination.

The central questions will be whether the ministers were informed of these acts and did nothing to halt them, or whether their senior officials covered up.

An example came in the Commons last November when Jean-Jacques Blais, then postmaster-general, denied that Mounties were tampering with the mail only to have Francis Fox, solicitor-general, admit a few moments later that they were.

Blais now is solicitor-general but the focus will be on his predecessors—Jean-Pierre Goyer, Warren Allmand and Fox—and on what they knew and what they were told by the RCMP officers who reported to them.

Did Goyer cover up RCMP participation in a 1972 police raid without warrant on offices of left-wing agencies in Montreal? He says he wasn't told the RCMP took part. But former commissioner W.L. Higgitt and retired Security Service director-general John Starnes say they would be surprised if they hadn't told him.

HAD DONE WORSE
The illegal break-in wasn't investigated until 1976, when an RCMP constable on trial on another matter in Montreal blurted that he had "done worse things" as a Mountie and mentioned participation in the raid. That led to a guilty plea by RCMP Chief Supt. Donald Cobb, then head of the RCMP Security Service in Montreal, for authorizing a raid without a warrant, and it led to creation of the royal commission last July as other such acts surfaced.

This week government lawyers before the commission were trying to keep private the 1976 correspondence between Bud Cullen, then revenue minister, and Allmand about the legality of a 1972 agreement with the revenue department that gave the Mounties access to personal income tax files for investigations.

Involve grass roots, DHR told

VANCOUVER (CP) — The provincial human resources ministry should be involving the community in providing its services instead of eliminating grass roots influence in policy planning, a United Church conference decided on the weekend.

Delegates to the 53rd annual British Columbia Conference of the United Church of Canada passed a motion expressing their "grave misgivings over the consistent trend, evidenced by its (the ministry's) policy decisions over the years to eliminate any hearing that either the neighborhood community or the needy themselves might have on the helping services the ministry provides."

The conference also passed a motion calling on the federal and provincial governments to delay issuance of permits for the exploration or mining of uranium in B.C. until further studies have been done on the effects of uranium mining and nuclear power on human life.

Outgoing president Rev. George Morrison of South Burnaby United Church said delegates are concerned that the Human Resources Ministry is centralizing the control of its services and reducing community influence in policy decisions, as well as cutting back on funding of services to the detriment of those who need help.

Seniors came for prizes

VANCOUVER (CP) — Liberal leader Gordon Gibson and Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm were hissed and booed Sunday by senior citizens at a meeting sponsored by Pensioners For Action.

Adding to the chagrin of the 250 elderly listeners was the absence of Opposition Leader Dave Barrett. An hour before the start of the meeting he announced he couldn't make it and was replaced by Rosemary Brown, NDP human resources critic.

"I came expecting to hear Dave Barrett—most people did and they're annoyed that he's not here," said one woman.

Equally vying for the audience's attention was a trip for two to Reno and lottery tickets, which were raffled off at the end of the meeting.

"To tell you the truth, half these people would never come if we didn't entice them with door prizes," said one organizer.

The meeting was billed as the first in what is expected to be a series of discussions on topics of interest to the elderly and Canadians in general. The concept arose out of a highly successful meeting here last fall when 700 people turned up to plot a province-wide information campaign for B.C.'s 230,000 senior citizens.

Sunday's topics dealt with Canadian unity and pension purchasing power. The national question drew little interest.

A section of a speech by J. V. Clyne, University of British Columbia chancellor, which was read to the audience when Clyne could not attend in person, drew more boos than applause when Clyne suggested that all schools should teach French and English at the primary level.

"If we can get more seniors participating in group pool games, cards and afternoon tea, I think it would be far better for their health than anything we could provide through Pharmacare," said Vander Zalm.

$1 million Indy lets Al Unser take top spot

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Al Unser, largely ignored as a contender in pre-race speculation because of development problems with his new Lola, sprinted out of the pack near the 340-kilometre mark and ran off to a comfortable victory over pole position starter Tom Sneva in Sunday's $1-million Indianapolis 500.

It was the third Indy 500 triumph in the career of the former U.S. champion from Albuquerque, N.M. Unser will celebrate his 39th birthday today, when he accepts a cheque for about $250,000 from speedway president Joe Cloutier at the victory dinner.

Unser lost his most persistent challenger when early pacesetter Danny Ongais rolled into Gasoline Alley with a smoking motor in his Parnelli, with slightly less than 170 kilometres left in the 62nd annual U.S. Memorial Day weekend race.

Spike Gehlhausen hit the wall just when the first wave of regular pit stops began. Some of the contenders, like Johnny Rutherford and Sneva, made their stops before the yellow. Krisloff, Ongais, and Johncock waited and were able to make service stops during the slowdown.

Mario Andretti's charge from 33rd spot stopped as soon as he reached the top 10, just 83 kilometres into the race, having used the caution flags to his advantage.

A wire went dead, shutting his motor off. It was changed, but he was out of contention by then and continued to drop back with engine problems.

Two caution periods were for tow-ins and Sheldon Kinser's car, which stalled twice on the backstretch in the first 11 laps.

Other than that, however, all of the 33 cars were off without incident at the start. Traffic problems officials feared might materialize with so many fast cars starting in the back of the pack never occurred.

Team-mates Gordon Johncock and Steve Krisloff were each one lap down in the third and fourth positions, respectively, after having been penalized the equivalent of one full circuit around the Indianapolis Motor Speedway track for pit road and caution flag violations.

FOYT HAS PROBLEMS
Four-time winner A.J. Foyt was hampered by a variety of problems all day, which prevented him from successfully defending his title as he finished an unofficial seventh.

Janet Guthrie ran consistently all afternoon and was credited with a top 10 finish unofficially, pending the official posting this morning. That posting will officially establish the final order of finish.

Unser qualified fifth, at 186.474 m.p.h., but as soon as the race started, he was on his way.

At the finish, Unser was ahead of Sneva, a runner-up for the second year in a row. Sneva was a half mile back, closing up slightly near the end as Unser backed off to save fuel. Unser, the winner here in 1970 and 1971, averaged 161.363 m.p.h., just under the race record.

Sneva had trouble synchronizing his pit stops with the race's six caution flags, something which Unser did better.

Canadian Cliff Hucul of Prince George, B.C., was knocked out of the race shortly after it began.

"We had a lot of trouble with the engine," Hucul said. "It blew water and oil all over, though we don't really know what exactly happened."

"It may have been a crack, we're not too sure right now ... we're going to tear it apart and find out."

Unser broke up a close duel between Ongais and Sneva when he moved in front on the 76th of 200 circuits. Except during pit stops, Unser led most of the rest of the distance.

He said his car performed well enough most of the day, but developed some handling difficulties late in the event.

TOOK NARROW LEAD
Unser took a narrow lead over Ongais just prior to the 200-mile point. Sneva lost even more time, and was a distant third. Johncock, the last car on the lead lap, was in fourth.

Foyt, whose Coyote never seemed to respond at the start, struggled to keep up but finally fell one lap in arrears during the second 100 miles.

At the end of the first 100 miles, Krisloff, Johncock's team-mate, had roared into a 14-second lead over Ongais with Sneva close behind in third.

Having the No. 2 driver, Krisloff in this instance, set a torrid early pace is a favorite tactic of chief mechanic George Bignotti.

The maneuver is designed to break the other contenders and clear the way for Bignotti's No. 1 driver, Johncock.

It backfired, however, because Krisloff was penalized one lap for passing a car during a caution period. That put Ongais back in front, and Krisloff out of the top 10.

Krisloff had played three yellow flags earlier to his advantage—besides the violation—to pick up the lead.

So officially, Ongais and Sneva were the only leaders in the race until the 75th lap when Al Unser pulled ahead.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Carloadings and revenues for British Columbia Railway reached record levels in 1977, while the operating loss also showed an improvement over the previous year, the Crown corporation said Monday in its annual report.

Loadings totalled 152,597, 28 per cent higher than 1976 loadings of 118,480. Net tonnage hauled totalled 8,283,168, up from 6,800,934 in 1976.

The corporation said the record performance was the result of improved market conditions for forest products, improved track conditions and the absence of work stoppages on the railway.

Operating revenues rose 51 per cent to $100 million, from $66.9 million in 1976. Operating revenues were $109 million, up from $88 million.

The operating loss for 1977 was $8.45 million, down from $21 million the previous year.

The railway's net loss for 1977, after interest and other charges, was $58.3 million, compared with $53.4 million in 1976.

Capital expenditures totalled $39 million, down from $75 million the previous year. The capital budget for 1978 is $37 million, including $18 million earmarked for upgrading the controversial Fort Nelson extension.

Denies high crime

VICTORIA (CP) — Attorney General Garde said Monday a weekend report that British Columbia has the highest crime rate in Canada—and Vancouver is the country's crime capital—is based on outdated figures.

Garde said in an interview that the report on crime trends in Canada prepared by Dr. Ezrat A. Fattah of Simon Fraser University's criminology faculty is based on 1975 data.

While not denying that B.C. and Vancouver have high crime rates, Garde reiterated previous statements to the effect that the province's crime rate has stabilized during the last two or three years.

The attorney-general said the reason the crime rate increase has tapered off is because of the increase in the province's police force.

He said 60 per cent of the crimes committed in B.C. are drug-related and his ministry has been asking the federal government for more funds to combat the problem.

Editorial

An Oriental story tells of a compassionate elephant sitting down to talk to a limping ant to see if it could help, and in so doing sat on the anthill and wiped out the whole colony.

The story could serve as an illustration of what occurs when a government, however well intentioned, tries to assist in matters beyond its scope; particularly on a humanitarian and personal scale.

A case in point is that of a Native community in Northern Manitoba, some years ago when the annual report on vital statistics showed that community to have an exceedingly high infant death rate—particularly for babies under 2 years of age.

In an attempt to alleviate the situation the federal government medical services speeded up its nursing station program and "rushed" in to erect a modern unit, with four adult and three infant beds and cribs. The unit cost in the neighborhood of $200 thousand plus.

Sometime later, a missionary there, alarmed at the still high infant death rate noticed that bottle-fed babies almost always succumbed within a few months. An Indian myth was widespread that bottle babies never lived because it was an offence against nature to nurse artificially.

Enjoy an Election-free Summer

Ottawa.—An election-free summer, Pierre Elliott Trudeau calls it.

And if The Great One doesn't change his mind you'll be freer than you think.

For there's more to an election than the voting. There's any number of irritations that won't be aggravating you.

But don't count on it, much less lay money on Pierre meaning it.

For as he so frankly confessed the other day, no Prime Minister in his right mind ever calls an election he isn't sure of winning.

And Fearless Pierre wasn't at all sure after examining the entrails of Gallup and Goldfarb.

But if those polls, taken monthly, go up for Pierre and down for Joe, then look for an election call in August for an October vote.

Meanwhile, relax and enjoy the respite of Pierre's "election-free summer" while it lasts. "Election-free," that is, if your friendly neighborhood party candidates take Fearless Pierre at his word.

Which any number of them aren't, including some Liberals, and of course most Conservatives and New Democrats who are going to carry on campaigning just in case Goldfarb and Gallup give Pierre the go-sign on upcoming sample vote

Too Much Government

The missionary's wife refused to believe this. Investigating the stock of nursing bottle nipples available at the only trading post, when some she had bought for her own infant proved unusable (as the sides stuck together and tended to collapse), she found the cause for the babies' decline and languishing and eventually dying. Once a supply was ordered by the missionary, almost miraculously the bottle-fed babies flourished.

The story should have had a happy ending. The bachelor store manager would not believe it. He refused to stock the 20 cent variety instead of the ten cent, perishable ones. When the nurse in charge of the nursing station left, her successor refused to go along with issuing nipples at all—for awhile. After an incredible amount of letter writing, surveys and research, the issue was finally settled, satisfactorily. Now, on that same reserve, few people remember this ever happened.

The story is only recounted here, at all, to show how a government can spend two hundred thousand dollars to clear up a tragic situation that could have been immediately alleviated by making a safe nursing bottle nipple, costing only 20 cents apiece, available to non-nursing mothers—of which there were about twenty a year. They could have even been given free, at a cost to the government of only ten dollars—and would have saved perhaps fifteen or twenty lives a year...

Few civil servants are willing to admit mistakes. Some time later we went back to do some follow up on the story. The evasion, the subterfuge and the outright lying we discovered would make a story in itself.

Nonetheless there are doubtless readers in Terrace who have had similar experiences in dealing with the government. A government that can be either an angel of mercy—or a blundering elephant, crushing out life with its clumsy attempts at aid—however well intentioned.

We think there is a lesson to be remembered from all this. Especially during pre-election time.

The government must not be allowed to become a gigantic computer, eliminating the humanity without which common sense is impossible.

Dave Stupich popular with B.C. farmers

by Tony MacGregor

VICTORIA — Although the confrontation between B.C. farmers and the ministry of agriculture over the farm income assurance program appears to have been diffused, one salient fact has emerged from all of the bluster and shouting.

Farmers are deeply attached to the income assurance program which provides them with financial help when the cost of producing food exceeds the price at which they can sell it.

And any attempt by governments to meddle with that program will meet with determined resistance.

The man most responsible for pushing the program through is Dave Stupich, the NDP MLA from Nanaimo. It was during his reign as minister of agriculture for the NDP government that the program was passed and it was also during his reign that British Columbians watched the biggest and angriest demonstration of farmers that the province has ever seen.

The demonstration was against the NDP's freeze on the sale of farm land to urban developers. The income assurance program was in part a reaction against farmers' protests against the land freeze.

But despite all the turmoil in the agricultural community when Stupich was minister, he was a popular man with leaders of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture which represents about 11,000 farmers around the province.

"He really put agriculture on the map," said Jack Wessel, general manager of the federation who worked as the manager of financial services when Stupich was minister.

He said that before Stupich took over as agriculture minister, the ministry's budget was around $14 to $15 million, but when he left it was up to $60 million.

"He was the strongest minister we've dealt with," he said. "When he agreed to a point we had no worry. There was no question about him not being able to convince his colleagues."

Stupich had good reason to put agriculture on the map. A former chicken farmer who went broke when his chickens caught an incurable disease, Stupich was raised on a 13-acre Vancouver Island stump farm and has a first-hand knowledge of the difficulties of wrestling a living from the land.

A small, intense man with a full head of grey hair, the 56-year-old Stupich sparkles with nervous energy and says he has no romantic illusions about returning to a self-sufficient life on the land.

"It is more often considered by people who have never had to do it," he said.

Stupich grew into socialism and has never seriously considered any other philosophy. Socialism seems absolutely rational to him.

The son of a Croatian immigrant (a strong Canadian Commonwealth Federation (CCF) supporter who worked in coal mines on Vancouver Island when they were open), Stupich developed his love of politics in part by listening to political radio programs with neighbors and friends of the family. His father was one of the first to acquire a radio in South Wellington, a village of 200 persons at that time.

"I guess I didn't pick a philosophy out of a fish bowl and say this is the one I want," he said. "My mind was made up. It seemed so logical."

One big problem Stupich has had to overcome is shyness and speaking before a crowd. So nervous is Stupich that he was rejected by the airforce several times because his pulse rate shot up to a phenomenal 142 when he went for his medical exam. He was eventually let in.

But his nervousness didn't stop him from launching his political career in 1949 immediately after graduating from the University of British Columbia with a degree in agriculture. He attended university on the veteran's program.

After he took part in his graduation ceremonies, he rushed to a float plane to speak at a political meeting on Ganges Island. He went into it cold. Nothing in his airforce career had prepared him for public

Quebec Colleges Hurting

By ALLAN SWIFT

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec's junior colleges are limping to the end of a turbulent year marked by student discontent and walkouts by teachers protesting layoffs.

For a while this spring students feared they would lose their school year because of strikes and sporadic walkouts by Quebec's 8,000 junior college teachers. Although the government said no academic time would be lost, some students have vented their anger with college administrations and provincial education policy by backing the teachers.

There are more than 100,000 students in the province's junior colleges, although about 11,000 students in four colleges in or near Montreal have taken the brunt of work stoppages called to protest the non-renewal of contracts for 400 teachers.

While students should have been cramming for exams early in the spring, classes were disrupted in several colleges as activists occupied administration buildings to support the teachers' cause.

While attention has been focused increasingly on the teachers' contract dispute during the spring term, administrators and officials from the provincial education department still are trying to wrestle with problems highlighted throughout the school year by outbreaks of student unrest.

TAKE TO STREETS

Like a fainter echo of the campus protests a decade earlier, students took to the streets or occupied administration offices to demand abolition of tuition fees, more academic freedom, a greater say in running courses, even lower cafeteria prices.

Some of the Quebec students who voted overwhelmingly for the Parti Quebecois two years ago are beginning to express disenchantment with the PQ government, saying it has not fulfilled a party pledge to abolish tuition fees, nor has it improved the economy sufficiently to assure jobs when they graduate.

The government has also come under fire from students for raising tuition fees for foreign students.

"A lot of illusions have fallen," said Daniel Paquet, president of the Quebec Students Association.

The first junior colleges—known as CEGEPs—were established 11 years ago as a reformed and modernized Quebec government took over public education which, in the French-language sector at least, had been run by the Roman Catholic Church for 300 years.

The CEGEP, or College d'Enseignement General et Professionnel, offers either a two-year pre-university program to Grade 11, or a three-year career program. There are 41 CEGEPs, four of them English-language institutions.

BLAMES LEFTISTS

Donald Fortin, general secretary at the Montreal college Vieux Montreal, says much of the student unrest is fermented by outside leftist agitators.

"It's obvious that leftist groups get behind everything that could show up as a problem... to make political capital."

In March, some 600 CEGEP and university students paraded through downtown Montreal to demonstrate at the Hydro-Quebec building which houses the Montreal office of Premier Rene Levesque.

Some carried large red banners of various Marxist-Leninist factions, and leftist literature was distributed.

Hydro denies Secret Construction

Dear Sir:

Many of your readers probably read a recent report in a Vancouver morning newspaper based upon a statement by a B.C. Wildlife Federation official that B.C. Hydro is "hiding from the public" a giant make-work power construction strategy for British Columbia. That suggestion was untrue. The facts of the matter bear repeating.

It has always been B.C. Hydro's job to anticipate electricity needs for the province and to develop whatever energy resources will best meet public demand—technically, economically, environmentally and socially. If the provincial government is attempting to attract new economic activity to B.C. and fails to do so because there is insufficient developed power available for new industry, Hydro has not done its job. There is no secret grand strategy involved. Hydro's job is to provide the electricity necessary to meet the economic goals of the province.

It's no secret the power projects mentioned in the recent report are indeed being assessed. This work is part of our continuing program of assessing potential energy options for development as and when they may be required.

Liard and Iskut-Stikine Rivers? Preliminary studies were done some years ago, and are now being updated to give us a current idea of their problems, should these energy resources ever be needed. These studies were the subject of a press announcement by B.C. Hydro last year. Preliminary transmission line route studies to connect these potential power sites to the load centres are also being done.

McGregor Diversion? Studies on that project were suspended early this year after parasitology studies identified five parasites known to cause mortality in the Pacific (McGregor-Fraser) drainage system that, if transferred, could endanger fish in the Arctic (Paranip-Peace) drainage system. The news release announcing this decision stated "for the moment there appears to be no reasonable method of preventing McGregor to Paranip transfer affecting the Arctic." Studies will not be resumed unless the fish problem becomes solvable.

We have stated that the McGregor could still be developed as a conventional power resource with no upstream diversion into the Paranip River, which would avoid the problem of parasite transfer. This limited project, however, is much less attractive than the diversion would have been and is not presently being considered.

Flooding Reserves? Most of the major rivers in B.C. have flooding and other map reserves on them, held by the provincial government—not B.C. Hydro. Most of these reserves were placed long before B.C. Hydro came into existence. Reserves exist principally to indicate to resource users that there may be other potential uses for a river basin. A simple statement of fact.

East Kootenay Coal? B.C. Hydro has begun preliminary feasibility studies for a possible thermal plant in the Fernie-Sparwood area, using waste coal from the metallurgical coal mining operations there. Again this is no secret. We have had a number of representations from people in the East Kootenay urging this project be started. Energy from this source may not be required before the mid-1980s, but could precede development at Hat Creek if it makes economic sense to do so.

Studies will establish the facts of the matter. Murphy Creek? We have received inquiries about the possibility of developing the Murphy Creek project as a means of maintaining economic activity in the Kootenay Boundary Region now that hydro-electric construction appears to be coming to a close in that part of the province. After the construction of several hydro-electric projects in the region there is a highly trained construction work force resident in the area and some people want this employment to continue. There is no present plan for the development of the Murphy Creek project which in the past has been rated far below other potential alternatives. However, the cost-benefit values of the project are being re-examined. This was mentioned by our Seven Mile project construction manager at a public meeting in Trail recently and received considerable attention from local news media.

In addition to the above projects, B.C. Hydro is also studying geothermal potential near Pemberton and will also, within the next few months, begin preliminary feasibility studies of a hog fuel and waste wood thermal generating plant in the Quesnel area. These studies are part of Hydro's job to program for the future.

There is no secret about any of the above projects. Apart from routine re-ranking of potential projects to meet long-term planning scenarios, these potential projects are not part of any corporate planning timetable. Nor is there any hurry to proceed from preliminary to detailed studies with any of them at the moment. If anticipated power needs require that any project proceed to the detailed study stage there will be ample publicity and project planning information similar to that provided on the Hat Creek, the McGregor, the Sita C on the lower Peace River, and the Kootenay River Diversion projects. But when it takes ten to twelve years to bring a project into production can anyone seriously object to the studies necessary for intelligent planning?

Even detailed study of a proposal by Hydro does not in any way mean that its development is a foregone conclusion. Hydro must seek formal government approval for any new generating plant through a public licensing process, and for this extensive information is needed to identify the potential environmental and social impacts. We do not in any way take the licensing process for granted. Nor should our critics.

Yours sincerely, C. W. Nash General Manager for Corporate Affairs

MK Springs alive

by Don Pearson, Custom Sports

Tide this morning at MK Bay Marina is high at 9 a.m. at 12.4 feet; low tide is at 3:15 p.m. with 5.1 feet.

Douglas Channel fishing yesterday was good with most boats catching fish.

As I said Friday, in my report, I went to Kitsumay and fished the point between the bay and Breakfast Bay.

We caught our limit of Spring Crab fishing is good in most of the crabbing locations.

We saw porpoises in the entrance of Devestation Channel. Sixty pound Spring came in from the north.

Th is one and one 20 pound small ones.

Soccer Super-Stars

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Each World Cup soccer tournament produces new superstars—Ferenc Puskas of Hungary in 1954, Pele of Brazil in 1958, Bobby Charlton of England and Uesbio of Portugal in 1966, Gerd Mueller of West Germany in 1970, Johann Cruyff of Holland in 1974.

These giants of the world's most popular team sport are no longer on the scene. Who will be the heroes of 1978?

Some say look no further than the host nation, Argentina, whose front line includes the elusive Daniel Berton, a 22-year-old attacker who specializes in clever free kicks. There also are Mario Kempes, brought back from the Spanish League team Valencia, and Rene Houseman, a member of the 1974 World Cup squad.

On the Brazilian team every opponent must fear the midfield artistry of 32-year-old Roberto Rivelino, the man with the drooping mustache and the lethal shot from either foot.

Also in the Brazilian attack is the man dubbed The White Pele. He is Arthur Antunes Coimbra, known to supporters as Zico. His bursts from midfield have brought him more than 300 goals for the Rio de Janeiro club Flamengo.

Up front for the Brazilians is Jose Reinaldo, 21, the man everyone in Buenos Aires wants to see. This electrifying forward who began his professional career at 15 comes with a big reputation. STARS GONE

Defending champion West Germany only has a handful of survivors from 1974: Franz Beckenbauer now is the multimillion-dollar star of the Cosmos, and gone, too, are Gerd Mueller, Paul Breitner and Wolfgang Overath.

But the German midfield remains powerful. The veteran Rainer Bonhof is a key man alongside hard-running Heinz Flohe. On attack, Klaus Fischer is a dynamic centre-forward, while 22-year-old right-winger Rudiger Abramczik caused the Brazilians a lot of problems in a warm-up match.

Holland may flounder without Cruyff, who has quit soccer, but the man best able to fill the gap, says Cruyff, is 30-year-old striker Robby Rensink.

Ten of Italy's 22-man squad comes from Juventus of Turin, including 27-year-old forward Roberto Betegga, who can score spectacular goals from any place.

Perhaps Italy's classiest player is 36-year-old goalkeeper Dino Zoff, a gentleman off the field, and a nearly impenetrable barrier on field.

INJURED KNEE

Scotland's centre-half Gordon McQueen, a match-winner in the air, has a serious knee injury that may hobble him throughout the tournament. But another Scot of world class is forward Kenny Dalglish who was signed by English League club Liverpool last summer for $400,000.

Hull honoured with Order medal

BELLEVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Winnipeg Jets' Bobby Hull will receive the Order of Canada medal from Gov. Gen. Jules Léger at a sports celebrities' dinner Wednesday, banquet organizers said Saturday.

It is believed to be the first time an Order of Canada presentation has been made outside Government House in Ottawa.

The honor was bestowed on Hull in January but he was unable to attend presentation ceremonies in Proceeds from the dinner will go toward the 3,000-seat, $7-million Quinte sports centre, completed in December with the help of a $3.2-million Wintario lottery grant.

Head table guests will include Roger Neilson, coach of Toronto Maple Leafs, Bob Gainey, a forward with Montreal Canadiens, boxer George Chuvalo, Red Story, former National Hockey League referee and Don Jackson, former Canadian and world figure skating champion.

Reds dumped in doubleheader

by Dave Hamilton

The Houston Bees used several Terrace errors and three home runs to defeat the Reds twice on Sunday in Bulkley Valley Baseball League play at Kerr-Rotary park.

In the opener, Bees catcher Tim Janzen belted two homers on route to an 8 to 2 win; the second game saw Janzen drive another ball out of the park as the visitors handed the Reds a 10 to 1 match.

Back to the first game. The Bees took an 8 to 0 lead before the Reds got their two runs in the last of the seventh. Houston's big inning came at the top of the third when they scored four times: three on Janzen's second homer. This gave them a 5 to 0 lead.

The Bees picked up another run in the fourth inning via a Reds error and a double by their player Kerry Miller.

The visitors finished off their scoring in the seventh with one single and two Terrace errors.

The Reds picked up their two runs of the first game when Lance Legouffe was awarded first on a balk, stole second, then was driven home by a single off the bat of Dave Hamilton. Singles by Willie Harvey and Rob Dozie put Hamilton home.

Kerry Miller was the winning pitcher for the Bees and Jim Kellar was tagged with the Reds loss. Both pitchers threw the full seven innings.

The second game was highlighted by three big Houston innings as they scored four runs in the second, three in the fourth and three in the fifth. The second inning let the Bees score four singles and three walks. The fourth featured Tim Janzen's third homer of the day; a three-run hit scoring Jack Sullivan and Dawson Bush.

In the fifth the Bees got three more singles and a little help from their opponents, the Reds, who committed three errors.

The Reds got their only run in the fourth when Dozie walked, stole second, third, and scored on Jim Place's sacrifice bunt.

Ron Janzen was the winning pitcher going the full distance. Gino Tamele was accredited the Reds loss.

A spokesman for the Reds stated that the errors are not uncommon for this time of the season. He also felt that lack of experience on the team was the major sore spot of the club.

"We've got to start hitting the ball better if we expect to win, especially in this league where offense is a far greater part of the game than defense. The entire team is aware that they can handle the ball in the field, but everyone has room for improvement at the plate," explained the spokesman.

Found body a mystery

TEMPLE HILLS, Md. (AP) — Maryland State Trooper Herman Bethel got a skeptical response at first when he reported finding a body on the Washington Beltway early Friday.

It was a 2.5-metre alligator, a victim of close encounters with several vehicles.

Bethel says the dispatcher didn't believe him at first when he called in to report his discovery.

Police were trying to find out where the alligator came from.

Calls to the National Zoo and the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus, now appearing in the Washington area, came up negative, and police said nobody had called in to report a missing alligator.

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — The last surviving child of Devil Anse Hatfield, patriarch of one of the combatant families in the bloody feuds between the Hatfields and the McCoy's, has joined his parents after a 90-year life of fighting and fun.

E. Willis Wilson Hatfield died in a Huntington hospital Thursday night. His death followed a brief illness.

Hatfield was the 12th of 13 children born to the infamous clan chieftain and his wife, Levey Chafin Hatfield. He grew up in a log house on Main Island Creek in Logan County in southern West Virginia, and until his death could recite tales of the 25-year feud between the two clans that claimed more than 100 lives before the turn of the century.

Two years ago, the Hatfields and McCoy's officially buried the hatchet with a ceremonial picnic in Williamson. Patriarch Joseph McCoy attended and chatted with Willis Hatfield, who, as the only son and oldest Hatfield present, acted as the titular head of his clan.

"I did some drinking with a couple of those McCoy boys one time," Hatfield admitted once. "And you know what? They were real good fellers."

His funeral will be Sunday afternoon at Logan. Burial will follow at the Hatfield Family Cemetery, near Sarah Ann. A life-size statue of Devil Anse overlooks the cemetery. The figure's back is forever turned on the Kentucky side of the Tug Valley, home of the McCoy's.

LONDON, (Reuters) — A London wine bar which refuses to serve women at the counter is not breaking Britain's sex discrimination law, a judge ruled Friday.

The El Vino Bar in the heart of the British Capital's newspaper district, Fleet Street, serves women only if they sit at one of the tables at the back of the room.

Journalist Sheila Gray spearheaded an assault on what women's liberationists see as an insulting bastion of male privilege by suing the bar for discrimination.

But the fortress survived her onslaught when Judge Henry Ruttie said the rule saved women from being jostled and pushed and was not against the 1975 sex law.

BRISTOL, Pa. (AP) — Local police are on the trail of a missing bridge last seen about one week ago.

So far investigators know little about the 1,500 pound,

2.5 metre bridge, that spanned a Delaware Canal sluice in this Bucks County community.

County Parks Supervisor Eugene Glza told police the discovered the structure missing during a routine inspection of Bristol's Grudny park on Tuesday.

Police said the bridge was constructed from 19 beams of lumber. They speculated the thieves unbolted the structure and carried it away piece by piece.

The bridge is worth about $500 — valuable information for anyone being offered a quaint, rustic bridge wholesale.

God has created only one impossibility in His entire creation, and that impossibility is that one cannot hate mankind if one really loves God.

Suits out of hand

VANCOUVER (CP) — The ministry of consumer and corporate affairs has asked the British Columbia Supreme Court to stop a Vancouver woman from launching lawsuits.

Valerie Doreen Morrow has started 11 separate court proceedings most for $1 million, against General Motors of Canada, the B.C. Rentalsman and the Bank of Montreal, among others.

The ministry asked the court Friday for a declaration that Morrow has persistently started "vexatious" legal proceedings in the courts of British Columbia.

It also asked for an order to stop her from starting any further legal actions in a B.C. court without leave of the court.

One of her claims, for $1 million against the Rentalsman, was dismissed Thursday in B.C. Supreme Court. She had claimed damages as the result of rent controls and inability to evict undesirable tenants.

Other actions filed by Morrow included a $1 million claim against General Motors of Canada involving a 1976 Cadillac Eldorado.

Gerry looks like he's running

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gerald Ford had some folks in for coffee the other morning.

There were about 50 reporters, cameras and crews from the television networks and assorted members of the cabinet and staff that served him in the White House.

And if he is not gearing up to run for president again in 1980, he gives a good imitation.

The affair was billed as a press coffee at the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research, the foundation that is Ford's current Washington base.

There was a lot more press than coffee. The former president did not have a sip. He was too busy answering questions. Politics, foreign policy, inflation, more politics.

Coincidentally, this was one day after the publication of a Louis Harris poll that showed Ford leading President Carter, 48 percent to 43 percent, if the 1980 presidential election were to be held now.

Would that impel him to run again?

"I haven't really thought of that poll in that context," Ford said. "I've never thought polls were that critical."

"So we'll just wait and see."

Besides, as Ford used to say when Carter was outdistancing him in the 1976 public opinion polls, the only one that counts is the one on election day. In that one, Democrat Carter beat Republican Ford by three percentage points.

There is a school of thought that holds Ford might not be inclined to give up the good life of Palm Springs, the celebrity golf circuit, part-time politics and lecturing to return to the rigors of running-unless Ronald Reagan is a 1980 candidate for the Republican nomination.

Reagan is not saying, either.

The same Harris poll showed Reagan and Carter about even in a hypothetical 1980 contest.

Ford said he will make his decision about 1980 in a year, perhaps a year and a half.

Whenever Reagan is asked, he says pretty much the same thing.

But a good many people are, and it is hard to believe that Ford and Reagan are not among them. Ford, now 64, and Reagan, at 67, will have a best one more chance to run, and even now they may have trouble with the political generation gap. A younger crop of Republicans already is suggesting that both of them should stand aside for a new generation of prospects.

Beyond that, there is the fact that a rematch between them would ignite again the GOP ideological strife that has been characteristic of the party for years.

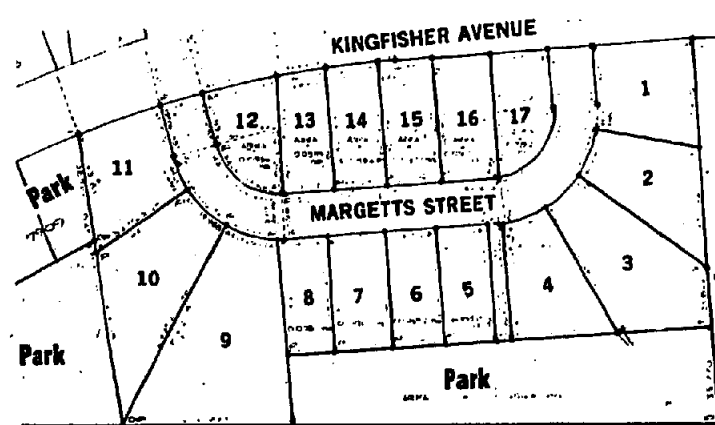

John Deardourff, a campaign consultant who worked for Ford in 1976, suggests in the new magazine Public Opinion that the Republican Party machinery is in such conservative hands that there is only a remote possibility a moderate candidate can be nominated in 1980.

HELPFUL HINTS ON HAVING A Healthy Garden

WINDOW BOX GARDENS

If you don't have a backyard to use as a garden, or if you just want an extra challenge added on to your green-thumb duties, why not try window-box gardening? Here are some tips from experts on how to get started in this ever-more-popular pastime—and how to avoid problems en route.

First, provide appropriate boxes with holes in the bottom for drainage. Put in two or three inches of cinders or broken brick and fill with rich, porous soil. Regular attention to watering is of prime importance.

Your window box should fit the window space, but if the length is excessive, make it in two sections. For good results, the box should be not less than 8 inches deep and 10 inches wide. Bore 1/2-inch holes 6 inches apart in bottom for drainage.

The best soil for window boxes is one that is rich and with plenty of humus to retain moisture. Use two parts loam, one part peat moss, with a five-inch pot of super-phosphate mixed with each bushel.

Among the most satisfactory flowers that grow in window boxes are begonias, geraniums, fuchsias, ageratum, petunias, dwarf marigolds, pansies, morning glory and sweet alyssum.

All house, hanging and window box plants need plant food to maintain vigor and color. One that is recommended by many professionals is Earth Care® Professional Plant Food. To use, mix one-quarter teaspoon per gallon of water for hanging and other indoor plants and one tablespoon to one gallon of water for outdoor and patio plants. For iron "anemic" plants, treat with the recommended rate of Earth Care Professional Plant Iron Tonic soluble powder.

Window gardens may not be as large as the garden in your backyard, but they can be as beautiful if they get the proper care and planning.

New colors in kitchen paints are being used to complement the natural wood cabinets and the popular copper-tone appliances now used so widely.

New Lighting Does Wonders For Bathroom

The most neglected room as far as efficient lighting is concerned is the bathroom. Even in new houses or condominiums, a tiny fixture over the medicine cabinet is expected to provide sufficient lighting for a close shave or a glamorous make-up.

In order to give shadowless light, a bathroom mirror should have a lighting fixture on either side and one in the ceiling above the head to illuminate all of the face equally. The latest type of lighting on the market is Track Lighting and it is ideal for this purpose, because it is not stationary like other fixtures. It can be moved along its track on the ceiling and swiveled around to focus wherever necessary.

The tracks come in two lengths—four or eight feet, and can be joined or crossed or placed in a "T" or "L". The lights themselves come in various shapes and sizes. New for the home are the "mini" sizes, which are only 2 1/2" to 3 1/2" in diameter. What's more, each light on the track can be switched on and off individually.

You'll be surprised what a Geor - booster good, bright lighting can be in your bathroom.

Now that time, as well as money, has become a precious commodity we need to budget it wisely. Many homemakers no longer spend hours in the kitchen preparing meals. They rely heavily on convenience foods and partially prepared products to save time and energy.

It is always a good idea to keep an emergency supply of canned, bottled and packaged foods on hand - the kind that can be served instantly or with a minimum of preparation. Yesterday's cake and fresh fruit become an exciting dessert fondue when dipped into melted concordgrape jelly. Stretch a small amount of hamburger by making it into meatballs and serving with prepared spaghetti sauce. Combine two or three different varieties of canned soup for a spur-of-the-moment first course. Make fancy desserts in a jiffy. Take ordinary pound-cake, slice into three layers, spread bottom two layers with one jar of concordgrape preserves, assemble, frost and sprinkle with chopped nuts. Presto! An easy, elegant torte.

Suggested here are two fancy desserts made with convenience foods. Their ease of preparation makes them suitable for both parties and family meals.

For the French Peach Tart a frozen pie crust, packaged pie crust mix or your favorite pastry recipe can be used, depending on the length of time you want to spend. The filling is a luscious concoction of whipped cream laced with orange-flavored liqueur. Canned peach slices are then attractively arranged over the filling and glazed with a mixture of concordgrape jelly and lemon juice. Additional whipped cream is piped around the edge of the tart and sprinkled with crumbled peanut brittle or chopped nuts for garnish.

Brandied Strawberry Sauce is something you will want to keep in your refrigerator at all times to perk up ice cream, fruit or pudding. This beautiful ruby-red dessert sauce combines concordgrape jam, brandy, chopped strawberries (fresh or frozen) and lime peel.

FRENCH PEACH TART

- 1 package pie crust mix or 1 frozen 8-inch pie crust, baked and cooled
- 1 tablespoon orange-flavored liqueur
- 2 cups sweetened whipped cream or prepared whipped topping
- 1 can (1 pound) peach slices, well-drained
- 1/2 cup concordgrape jelly
- 1-1/4 teaspoons lemon juice
- Sweetened whipped cream
- 1/4 cup crumbled peanut brittle or chopped nuts

Prepare pie crust mix according to package directions and shape into 8-inch tart pan or pie plate. Stir liqueur into 2 cups whipped cream; chill.

ment have shown that distilled water, used with a floral preservative, can extend the life of cut flowers up to 100 percent. Devoted flower lovers may have already made this discovery about distilled water which, until now, has been used mostly in steam irons and for cleaning contact lenses.

This floral life-span increase stems from the fact that the preservative reacts more quickly and effectively with distilled water than with common tap water. The chemicals in tap water tend to slow down the preservative action and interfere with optimum results. Unlike tap water, distilled water contains no chemicals, minerals, or trace elements of any kind. You can use distilled water on your house plants, too.

Though the soybean was cultivated in China before 3500 B.C., it was virtually unknown in the U.S. until 1900.

TIPS FOR HOMEOWNERS

DOUBLE THE LIFE OF YOUR CUT FLOWERS

Imagine buying a bouquet of cut flowers on Monday and still being able to enjoy them the following Monday. Impossible? Not when you fill your vase with distilled water and floral preservative.

Although roses are quite hardy and will grow in almost any kind of soil, there are two basic requirements that these perennial beauties demand: that the ground be well drained, and that the sun shines brightly enough on them.

To plant your roses, start with a hole 12 inches deep and 18 inches wide. Loosen the bottom soil and form a small cone of earth in the center. Carefully fan out the roots, place the bush over the cone and fill in the soil over the roots to about four inches from the top of the hole.

Then, tamp firmly so the roots are well anchored, and water thoroughly. Afterwards, fill the hole completely so the soil is one or two inches up the stock of the bush. It's also a good idea to fertilize your roses two or three times a year with a fertilizer that's high in phosphorus. Water them steadily and regularly so the roots are always kept moist. Yes, roses have many enemies, but they have many friends, too: insect enemies. To protect your roses and shrubs from pests such as aphids, mites, leafhoppers and other enemies, an effective pesticide such as Spectracide® is recommended. Spray on both sides of leaves until they're dripping wet. You can also use Spectracide Garden

Insect Dust to protect your roses effectively.

Rose lovers without much garden space will be happy to know that roses can be grown in containers. Any place that enjoys four to six hours of sunlight daily is suitable. Should you want the rose's sweet fragrance in a bouquet, clip just above the topmost spray of fine leaves. The lovely rose may look fair wherever it is placed, but prized above all is its lingering scent.

Car Tips By Totem Ford

Car Owner's Manual Least Read "Best Seller" Saves Money, Inconvenience

What book is available free to millions of Canadian motorists, contains vital information about a big investment, can save most of them money and inconvenience, yet still is among the least-read "best sellers" ever published?

If you haven't guessed, it's the new-car owner's manual. And if you're among the buyers of a 1978 model, you should carefully read your owner's manual. You'll be surprised how much new, useful information has been put into it in recent years.

This year's Ford and Mercury manuals, for example, have up to 100 pages devoted to vehicle operation, service, safety and customer convenience tips.

"Our vehicles undergo a variety of changes each year," said T. Larry Johnson, national service manager, Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited. "Even if a car owner glanced through his manual in past years, he still should take the time to read the new safety and operating instructions for his 1978 model."

Mr. Johnson notes that new emission control devices have caused auto makers to revise start-up instructions for many new-model cars in recent years. Drivers who fail to follow these new procedures may have difficulty starting their cars, particularly on cold mornings or when the engine is very hot.

Important notes on safety items, tire care, trailer towing and emergency driving situations also are found in most new-car manuals.

The auto makers also provide car owners with operating tips to help them enjoy the ever-increasing number of comfort and convenience features on today's cars. Ford's manual notes, for example, that a car will cool off faster once the air conditioner is turned on. If you leave the windows open for two to three minutes after parking under a hot sun. And did you know you should "cycle" the air conditioner once or twice a month during the winter?

Do you know the safe way to use jumper cables when starting a stalled car? Does your car use fuses, circuit breakers, or both, in its electrical system? The answers to these and many other safety, service and maintenance questions can be found in a car owner's manual.

FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 31, 1978

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) ♈

Hold to a well-ordered course. Some storm clouds are brewing, but the ingenious Aries will weather them smartly. Keep emotions under stern control.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21) ♉

Evolve a system of checks and balances in rating past efforts. Some changes are in the making, so be sagacious in planning to meet them.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) ♊

Another good day! You can make new records now. Don't spread yourself too thin, however, but concentrate on your most important objectives.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) ♋

A tailor-made day for your talents. You may face some "tight" situations, and others may vex but, if you remain serene, you can handle all.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23) ♌

Keep eyes on the ball now. Day can be one of tremendously useful performance if you note immediate needs and forget past disappointments.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) ♍

You may not accomplish ALL you hope to, but don't quit! Keep your hand on the wheel and keep pressing forward — to make SOME gains.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) ♎

Neither renege on promises nor attempt too much. Both extremes are likely now. Accept only what better sense recognizes will suit the day and good purpose.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23) ♏

Mars, favorable, suggests that you put forth the very best efforts possible, but without overtaxing yourself. Just that one extra try may turn the tide for you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) ♐

Because you did not succeed before at what you believed a worthwhile endeavor does not mean you will not now — IF it is still worthwhile.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) ♑

Matters may get off to a quick start in the a.m. Look carefully over your system, methods; try harder for surer satisfaction. The effort alone will reward.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) ♒

Mixed planetary influences. Right plans and moves at the right times and places will keep you in the lead for gains, with ease of effort.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) ♓

Good Neptune influences favor normal routine, as well as the launching of new enterprises. Deliberate, then act. Try a master stroke.

YOU BORN TODAY have been endowed with a high order of intelligence; are extremely ambitious, creatively inclined and unusually dexterous with your hands; could reach top-level attainment in professions where you can combine your mental and physical ability.

You are original in your ideas, but can carry out those of others with great facility, even improving on them as you go along. With your keen perception, you quickly analyze the most complex of situations and your lively imagination helps you in straightening them out.

You could excel at writing in any form or in the theater; at any occupation involving travel or dealing with the public — or a combination of both. Music as an avocation would make an admirable outlet for your emotions. Try to curb tendencies toward restlessness and extravagance. Birthdate of Walt Whitman, renowned Amer. poet; Pope Pius XI; Joe Namath, football star.

Today's Cryptopuzzle clue: B equals S

The Cryptopuzzle is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

tore up her little bottom. Then I said, "You let the doctor give you the shot so you won't get sick and die, and I don't want to see any more scenes." After that, she behaved herself and didn't shed a tear.

"When we got home, Mary said, 'Mama, don't you love me?' And I said, 'Sure I do, with all my heart.' And then she said, 'How come you didn't get me a doll like Lisa's?' Abby, should I have gotten my little girl a doll, too?"

SOFT-HEARTED MAMA

DEAR MAMA: No. If you had, you would have taught her two things: (1) If she wants something, all she has to do is scream for it. (2) A child is entitled to something just because a friend has one.

DEAR ABBY: I am a single woman, 43, going with a man of 58. Sidney is a widower with three grown children. He is very attractive and represents the kind of security a woman my age rarely finds. He was happily married for 30 years, and now he wants to marry me.

The trouble is my mother. We have lived together since Dad died 10 years ago, and ever since I told her I want to marry Sidney, she has cried and carried on like you wouldn't believe. She says he's too old for me and it will never work out. I've told her she could live with us, but she refuses to move to the city where we would live. (She and I presently live in a suburb.)

When her friends try to tell her that she should be happy that I'll have someone to look after me when she's gone, she says HE is only 11 years younger than SHE is, and he won't last that much longer.

Abby, I could be very happy with Sidney if it weren't for my mother. What should I do?

MOTHER TROUBLE

DEAR TROUBLE: Marry Sidney. And ask him if he has a friend for your mother.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is dead and I have two enlarged pictures of him nicely framed; I keep them in my living room. The other day a neighbor came in and saw them, and she said personal pictures do not belong in the living room.

Abby, I haven't had much education, and I would appreciate it if you would tell me if I am wrong to keep his pictures there.

I got a lot of pleasure out of looking at his pictures in the living room, but if they really don't belong there, I suppose I could put them somewhere else. Thank you.

DON'T KNOW

DEAR DON'T: Personal pictures should be enjoyed. And they "belong" wherever they afford the most pleasure.

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

DEAR ABBY: For the past six years my husband's boss, who lives out of state, sends me a huge bouquet of roses on Mother's Day. The box they come in bears the name of a local florist, and their truck delivers them, so it's not as though these flowers have been shipped any great distance. Well, I have never seen sorrier flowers in all my life! It is getting to be an annual joke around here. They aren't even worth putting into a vase. I just open the box and carry the flowers right out to the trash.

Then I sit down and write a "thank-you" note for the "beautiful" flowers. I told my husband this year that I think we should tell his boss what kind of flowers he has been paying for. My husband says we should be quiet. What do you say?

CHEATED IN TAMPA

DEAR CHEATED: I say a rose by any other name would smell. And so would the deal you've been getting from your florist. By all means let the sender know the kind of flowers you have been receiving. He would appreciate it.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that concerns not only me, but all the other kids who ride my school bus. It's our bus driver (she's a woman). First of all, she drives a little too fast; and second, when she has to put on her brakes because the car in front puts on his brakes, she waits until she is only about a foot away from the car.

How can I tell her she does these things without hurting her feelings? She is really a very nice lady! I am surprised we haven't had an accident yet, but some of the kids have black and blue marks all over from when she slammed on her brakes and everybody went flying. Thank you.

SIGN ME "SCARED"

DEAR SCARED: First, tell the woman bus driver what you've told me. If that doesn't slow her up, tell your mother.

DEAR ABBY: I am torn between my duty as a wife and my duty as a mother. I am 57 and my husband is 63. I recently received a letter from my daughter, who lives 1,200 miles from here. She said she is leaving her husband after 13 years of marriage and she wants me to come at once to stay with her kids and run her household so she can go back to work.

I don't think it's fair to leave my husband alone, but I hate to turn my daughter down. She didn't say how long she wants me to stay, but she has always been a very selfish girl, and I know once she gets me there, I will have a terrible time getting away. Please help me.

TORN IN TUCSON

DEAR TORN: Write to your daughter and tell her that if she plans to go back to work, she had better make permanent arrangements right now for running her household because your place is with your husband, and that's where you intend to stay.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SHOULD I?" Hair, like money, is never very important to the man who has plenty of it. If baldness bothers you, get a hairpiece.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 6-year-old daughter I'll call Mary. My neighbor has a 6-year-old daughter I'll call Lisa. Well, we took our daughters to the doctor for their shots. First my neighbor took Lisa in, and she screamed and hollered as if the doctor was cutting off her arm, so Lisa's mother said, "I won't let that mean old doctor hurt you. If you stop crying I'll buy you a new doll on the way home." So Lisa turned off the tears like you would turn off a faucet.

When it was my daughter's turn for her shot, I took her in and she started yelling and carrying on just like Lisa did. I said, "Wait a minute, Doctor." Then I took Mary and

Nutty company fired girl for coming to work early

LUTON, England (CP) — With a fine eye for a pun, Elizabeth Kovacs intoned: "This company must be nuts."

Elizabeth was a 17-year-old peanut packer for Q Peanuts until she was fired for showing up too early.

She had to admit she was warned. Q told her repeatedly to stop coming to work at 6:30 a.m. when her shift didn't go on stream until 8.

"She disobeyed an instruction while on a temporary contract and we decided not to keep her," said a Q spokesman.

"We applaud our workers who arrive on time. But that means on time—not too early."

Nuts, says Elizabeth, and she's taking the case to an industrial tribunal, claiming unfair dismissal.

Liz didn't want to work for Q in the first place. She was completely happy at a pickle-packing plant until the dampness there gave her bad knees.

So, she made the switch. It was great to be able to walk to work in the early morning—just the thing to relieve tension in the joints.

"I like to go to work in time to have a coffee and read a newspaper before I start," she says.

"It puts me in the mood for a hard day's work."

However, "If I was sacked for being too early, it is unfair that the firm should take no action against a girl who regularly arrived half an hour late."

However, Q claims that by arriving early she was upsetting the other workers.

I look upward. I earn time. I look forward. I utilize time. I look inward. I save time. I look backward. I waste time.
